Cognitive CoachingSM is:

- A process that supports individuals and organizations in becoming self-directed
- Is a powerful approach to enhancing performance and building learning organizations
- A model that helps to convey thinkers from where they are to where they want to be

Participants will:

- Practice strategies and learn a way of thinking that supports the on-going development of individuals as they become increasingly self-directed and reflective
- Learn ways to expand and refine knowledge skills to promote more effective teaching and learning
- Also learn to establish rapport, create trust, plan, reflect, and develop teacher self-confidence collaboration, flexibility, awareness and precision

In addition, the planning, reflecting and problem-resolving maps and tools of Cognitive CoachingSM will be demonstrated and practiced
