SOLVING THE SCHOOL READINESS EQUATION With READY COMMUNITIES And READY HEALTH SERVICES:

Ready Communities

play a critical role in ensuring that Young Children have a healthy and safe start in life. They provide Resources, Services and Supports for families with young children. Children whose families have easy access to community resources have better developmental outcomes than children whose families lack such access.

Ready Health Services

deal with the availability, quality and affordability of health care services. Access to primary and specialty health care is important in a young child's physical and emotional development.

Healthy children are more likely to enter school ready to learn.
